The Daily Standard. Friday, December 16, 1870.

Independent Order of Odd Fellows strides towards universal co-operation. than at any other period of the world's history. We need only stance and leave our readers to number and study the remaining; and the instance to which we allude is the Society of Odd Fellows of the United States. It was only started in 1817-a half century ago—now it numbers 298,-000 members, has a revenue of $2,715,-600, and spent this year in relieving its members, eight bundred and sixty thousand dollars. The members of the Society, being males, and all of age, may safely be put as down representing a million and a half of the people of the United States—one twenty-fifth of its entire population. The influence of such a body must be immense, but as a social problem it is one simmense, but as a social problem it is one Saturday, Dec. 17th, Toys, tages of co-operation. In connection with the Order in California, this year, there has been a veritable sensation The Order there numbers 14,000 members and spends in relief annually, $100,000; but, not content with that, it has proposed to build an Odd Fellows College, and nearly every town in the State has been excited from centre to circumference to get the College. The San Francisco Alta speaks of them in the "Twenty-seven different towns are amon the competitors, and there are forty offers in all, so that the choice requires considerable time and attention. Santa Cruz offers 470 acres as a gift, San Jose Mission 180 acres, St elena 80 acres, Stockton 95 acres and $10,-000 in cash, Sacramento and Santa Rosa, each 65 acres, Belmont, Martinez, Vallejo and Peace Valley, each 50 acres, Oakville 25 acres, Saucelite and Canada Raymondo, each 20 acres, Vacaville 10 acres with a building that cost $30,000, and so on through a long list. Much of the land here offered is worth S100 per acre, and many of the proposals are accompanied by promises that the land shall be accompanied by money gifts from the land holders in the vicinity—the sum in one case being $100,000. The offers, as a class, are extremely liberal, and they show not only that our towns are wide awake, but also that the land holders have how to deal liberally. with a great charity and with the large and influential Order of Odd-Fellows."

following strain :

The California Odd-Fellows not only seem determined to have a College at which to educate the youth of their Order, but they have already in San Francisco a Library of 20,000 volumes, and support a newspaper devoted to the inter-ests of the Order, which are the interests of homanity. When it was gravely proposed here recently by the Order to purchase a site for a Hall, it was looked with some surprise by the uninitiated ; but when we consider the character of the organization, its noble principles, its ungood, and to insure each other against misfortune, we only wonder that there ere men in community who are iguorant of an Order that represents so well the God-like principle of co operation.

England Protecting the Pope.

We had the other day a telegram that Mr. Gladstone had published a letter, asserting that England would guarantee the independence of the Pope. We were also told that the morning papers would assail Gladstone's protectorate. The tel. egraph has sent us but little of the contents of Mr. Gladstone's letter-nothing more than that there, was such a project proposed by Mr. Gladstone as protecting the Pope. We are, consequently, left to speculate on the nature of the protectorate. Now, it is a matter of notoriety that the late Tory Premier, Earl Derby, warmly sympathised with the Pope; and when we find Mr. Gladetone, the Liberal Premier, taking the question in hand boldly and practically, we may feel assured that the protection of the Pope has ceased to be the policy of a party, but has become the policy of the nation. Protestanism made itself heard and felt a quarter of a century ago, when the Pope divided up England into bishoprics; but a matter that is called for on the ground of general util-ity will soon be attained in a practical country like England. Hence, we take it for granted that, notwithstanding England has, ever since the Reformation, refused to be represented by an Ambassador at Rome, yet the protectorate is not at all unlikely. A few weeks back, An assortment of MEN'S UNDERCLOTHING we had the announcement that two menof war were sent to Civita Veechia to protect His Holiness; and also that Malta would be given him as an asylum. It is possible, therefore, that the British Government intend to cede Malta to the Pacific Marine Insurance Company, Pope,—in some such way as to secure his entire independence. Those who advecate the temporal independence of His Holiness maintain that without that he eannot be spiritually independent; and we may add that we know of no country in the world where he is more likely to in the world where he is more likely to secure both than under the flag of England. It is, however, barely possible that the Pope has no intention whatever of leaving Rome; and that all that Mr. Gladstone has proposed to do is to guarantee to the Pope in Rome the privileges that a Foreign Minister enjoys under International law in every European State,—that is, his person, his officers, his servants, are subject only to the laws of the sovereignty to whom the Ambasandor may belong, his residence being as inviolate as if it were not on foreign soil. It is, either at Malta or Rome that Mr. in either at Malta or Rome that Mr. MILLINER AND DRESSMAKER AT Exclish BAZAAR .- The world has been much indebted to the Johnson family. Every body his read of Ben Jonson, the poet, playwriter and friend of Shakspeare. Every-body has heard of Sam Johnson who collected the English language together and left it as a legacy to posterity; and also, of Andy Johnson who was lately Emp ror of the United States. But neither Ben, nor Sam nor Andy ever did more to carry the name of Johnson down to posterity than Mrs. John-stone of the English Bazaar, Government street opposite the STANDARD OFFICE. Bazaars in Asia are wond rful places, and we read of one that had 25,000 people in it, and all kinds of merchandize imaginable. But Mrs.

Johnstone's Bazaar though not quite so large will return this morning, leaving the H. B. is nevertheless big enough to accommodate the crowds of customers that flock there every day to se ect fancy goods, candies, platedware, cutlery and lots of &c , Ac.
